Request for Help

Would you help Me?

Did you make any New Year's resolutions? Was one of them to organize your genealogy? Or organize your research trips to the library and your out-of-town trips? Or was it to organize the books on your bookshelf so you can find things? I suspect that if you need to organize your genealogy, your filing system is foremost on the list and your book shelves second. Most of us have to get organized and each of us has different filing systems. I want to know about your organization plans and filing systems for a future article in our Newsletter.

Don't worry that your choices won't be like the 'others,' for it will be what works for you and is easy to use. I am serious about wanting to hear about your organization systems. Does your filing system work for you? Does it need to be examined to expedite papers more quickly? What motivates you to organize? What keeps you from being organized? What do you need to do to improve your research? I really would like to know.

Why am I asking you? I want to write about organizing files, research trips, etc. for a future Genealogy Friends Newsletter. The filing system would be either for your electronic and/or your paper files. If you don't want your name mentioned I will honor your privacy. Otherwise, I'll identify you with your filing system.

Most of us in our group would benefit greatly from reading about the way you file and organize your genealogy, your research trips, and your trips to the library. You can use examples if you want to or need to. Sharing is how we learn and progress in the genealogy field.

Just email to me at GenFriends@GenealogyFriends.org and I will receive them.

Thank you,

Brenda Kellow

Happy Birthday Genealogy Library

It has almost been one year since the genealogy collection moved to Haggard Library. The date was Jan 26, 2008. We think the staff has been so busy they hadn't even realized or even remembered the date. Stop by and see just what a great collection we have so close to home.

The library has library volunteers on hand to help if needed. The librarians say they really need more researchers especially on Saturdays. For right now, that means you Saturday researchers have the library all to yourself, but that is not what we want. We need to keep researching in our local genealogy library. If Saturdays' researchers do not increase, there is always the fear that the genealogy library may close on Saturdays.

Google Newspapers

There is an article on the Google Blog about a project they have to bring history online, one newspaper at a time. In September, they launched an initiative that began with indexing the archives of the New York Times and The Washington Post.

They recently purchased 20 million digitized pages from PaperofRecord.com. The collection covers he United States, Canada, and Mexico and includes the Toronto Star. One downside is that some of the papers indexed charge for access to the entire article, but the index is a huge help.

Newspapers are a great source for family history. In addition to obituaries you can find ads for ancestors businesses, lists of letters at Post Offices, news of the time to put your ancestor in context, and the personal columns can tell you details about your ancestor you won't find anywhere else. http://news.google.com/archivesearch

Tracing Our Roots Column

The "Tracing Our Roots" column written by Brenda Kellow appears each Sunday in the 'PULSE' or ENTERTAINMENT' section of the Plano Insider newspaper, and in Star Community newspapers throughout North Texas.

Visit the Plano Insider web site is http://www.planoinsider.net/ and click on either PULSE or ENTERTAINMENT to read the weekly column. Each column is posted for one week only. The column and archives are posted at http://www.geocities.com/TracingOurRoots.

"The Other Censuses"

Brenda Kellow will be speaking about the non-population census schedules at the McKinney library on Saturday, January 24, 2009 from 10:30 to 11:30 am. The library is located at 101E. Hunt (one block north of historic downtown at the corner or Hunt and Tennessee Sts.) Pre-registration is not required.

Legacy Users Group

The Legacy Family Tree users group meets the fourth Tuesday of each month at the Haggard Library in the Program Room from 10:30 to 12:30. Contact Joanne Corney at ptxlegacyug@verizon.net for more information.

Collin College Classes

Barbara Coakley will be teaching Genealogy I at Collin College. Class will be held January 26, 2009 to March 2, 2009 on Monday nights from 6:30 to 9:00 at the Courtyard Center.

Watch for the new class on Genealogy Research on the Internet coming in 2009.

Relatively Speaking

By Brenda Kellow

Finding a Relationship

Ever wonder how you are related to someone? I do, all the time. For instance, last summer when my grandson was visiting and his cousin was also visiting her grandparents I began thinking about their relationship. Sure they were cousins, but how closely were they related. I knew I was more closely related to Brenna than Michael. To find out the relationships, I went to my trusty Relationship Chart.

Brenna is the seventh generation from the common ancestor while I am the fifth generation. On the top of the relationship chart I count over five generations. Next I count seven generations down from the common ancestor on the left side of the sheet. While moving my finger along the generations from the top and side to where they intersect, I discovered Brenna is my third cousin twice removed and she is Michael's fifth cousin.

What Is a Cousin?

Cousins share a common ancestor. The determining factor of the relationship is how far back the generations are to the common relative. My mother's siblings' children are my cousins—my first cousins—because we share the same grandparents.

The Removed Factor

The once removed occurs when the generational differences to the common ancestor are not equal. My sister's grandchildren and my grandchildren are second cousins once removed because they share the same grandparents.

Grand vs. Great

Do you have a great aunt or uncle? Do you have a great-great aunt or uncle? I hope you said "no" because you don't, technically speaking. Sure, we call ancestors great aunt or great great aunt and we write them as g-aunt or g-g aunt. The grand denotes that there are two generations backward to the common ancestor, and the proper term is grand aunt, great-great-grand aunt.

If you study the attached Relationship Chart you will begin to understand the terms to denote the generational differences.
